

Qld Tribunal Response video

[00:00:00] Hello, I'm Anne Miles. My URN number is 2 1 9 8 8 9 8. I am currently a patient at the Gold Coast University Hospital, and I'm sending a video to the tribunal with a bit of an outline.

I just want say this is not an ordinary case, and I am asking for you to please really immerse in this and the detail that I'm providing deeply.

I do really need some consideration, and I'll be honest, I think there's legal ramifications for some of this situation and some of the things I've experienced. I'm doing a video also because the medications are impacting my cognitive functioning quite severely, and I am concerned when the tribunal date comes that I won't be fairly able to represent myself.

[00:01:00] And unfortunately, I don't think even talking to Mental Health Legal Aid, they would be equipped to answer this as I would be able to here... they did. Um, in Victoria.... I had a meeting with them and they basically said that I would be better off representing myself. However, if I'm medicated I'm not going to be able to do that.

So I thought this was a really sound way for me to give you the headlines. So firstly, my case basically boils down to a few really important things. The first is I'm a psychic medium, and unfortunately the current mental health system in these couple of hospitals don't understand the difference between psychosis and a spiritual experience.

I've previously gone through quite a rigorous process with a psychiatrist who [00:02:00] deemed the experience as 'independent phenomena' in his report, which I'll provide you. But he did say to me personally, he called it 'paranormal phenomena'. He is a doctor that was a specialist in consciousness technology or studied, researched, near death experiences (NDE's).

So he has got the credibility and the understanding that none of the doctors that I've experienced at the Alfred, BIPU and now Gold Coast University Hospital. None of them actually recognize psychic abilities as anything other than mental illness, which is alarming to me as a professional and at the moment, that's a key milestone to me even getting out of hospital and to be removed from medication.

So it is quite concerning and traumatizing actually. Because at the moment I don't see a way out, with their criteria. [00:03:00] Also, if even if I did have these skills and they were deemed psychosis, I also think I've got a right to keep them and I've got a right to a lot of the decisions in my life that I'm being wrongfully judged for, as you know.. some kind of like mental health dysfunction, when actually I've got a right to live where I wanna live. I've got a right to have my mediumship abilities because I'm a professional in it. And, to the degree of accuracy that's measured 90 to a hundred percent generally.

Also, the criteria that I worked with my psychiatrist in the past to determine what was mental health and what was, [correction: or mental illness, sorry]. ..and what was spiritual was on the basis of things that could be explained and proven with facts that is. Spiritual technology, and in fact it's 'consciousness, [00:04:00] technology' and separately, things that couldn't be explained or were generally negative.

I've been in hospital wards now and I've seen people who have proper psychosis and there's a whole lot of persecutory stuff and they talk to themselves and, you know, strange, you know, as if there's things in the room all the time. Um, I'm a medium, which is with the ability for two-way communication with spirit, but it's a like proven process and there is a bunch of science on it.

I've provided links for the latest science on this technology. It's been used by government and CIA for a very long time. It's actually a real thing. So, that is horrendous to me.

So the second thing is I do have some very real life stresses that are to the extreme. I do understand it seems kind of farfetched, however, yeah, they have turned out to be quite real to me. So I very much need the evidence of things. I know very clearly what's a reading, what's my own stress or reaction to things. I know what is, you know, a real life situation. Me with understanding what's my own witnessing, and what is also a fact or evidence actually that I can hand over. So I've provided a bunch of police reports and such, and I'm hoping by the time we get to tribunal, I will have a response from IBAC, which is the independent board of anti-corruption that looks after public officers in Victoria. I've made a report against the Alfred and Victoria Police.

Also because I've uncovered some organized crime and it's a decent level, uh, a high level [00:06:00] actually of, organized crime. And I've had some real life situations where I've had people staking out at my house and breaking in and I've had people following me on trams and, and I'm going, 'is this like mental illness?' And so what I would do is to test it - I would go and talk to them and I would go, 'I think you are one of, you know, Tony's guys'. I use that name. Um, 'You are one of Tony guys'. And then, like I could tell their cover was broken and they would get off the tram and then some new people would get on and I'd think, are they... Because I'm a medium, I can tell who's who. So I (identified) them. They came, other people came on the tram and I could call out who were the bad guys and they were like, "Oh my God, like how does she know?!" So I've had these types of real world things as feedback that it's actually real as well. So, now a lot of my investigations are with the, [00:07:00] anti-corruption police and there's report numbers and stuff I've provided.

So it's been very real and very real fear for my life, unfortunately. And it's actually something that started with family. Crimes, from my ex-husband's family, and there's reported documents and legal documents about these and child welfare reports. There's a whole lot of things that can validate this.

I've been dealing with that family for their criminal activity for over, well probably... I met my ex-husband in 1983, and I was with him until I was 40 years old. And then we had children as well. So when my child was young, there was some sex crimes my child spoke of. So it's been a long term thing and there's a lot of real world evidence about it at the moment.

I'm being told it's too fanciful [00:08:00] and without any facts, they're deeming it as a mental illness. And I find the process of guilty before innocent, absolutely unlawful, circumstantial evidence. And they're using hearsay from people who are not qualified to discuss my mental health. Ringing people, and also at the risk of exposing my location to people who are genuinely out to harm me.

So I feel this whole process has been quite unlawful. And in the process, I've also revealed some potential corruption with the Alfred. Being an investigative medium, I've been able to provide some dates of which doctors have been paid to impact my diagnosis. So that's not proven yet, but it's with the police and it's under investigation, so I'm understanding that... not speaking of a factual thing here, but it is underway and generally my readings, [00:09:00] are pretty accurate. I don't think there's gonna be a situation (deviating) from my personal understanding. My reading will be right, and if there's any incorrection, it might be, you know, a date out eg. instead of the 1st of May it might be the, you know, 1st of April or something. You know, like tiny little details like that can be out.

So I'm quite (self) aware, as also I'm highly qualified in personal development. I'm a life coach, advanced life coach, pardon me, a life coach, NLP practitioner, a EFT practitioner and so I'm quite well resourced to handle my own, you know, limits and to discern what's what. So I've been accused by the Alfred that I made these up and it's fanciful. I find that horrendous. So you can go to my LinkedIn profile and you can see them all listed there. I've provided a couple of certifications, but you know, if anyone wants to [00:10:00] see evidence of all of those, yeah, I have them all in a folder as well.

So it's just a joke to be questioned like this without any facts clarified. So, in general, I would say I'm concerned there hasn't been a lawful process involved in the diagnosis in the Alfred and it's had a roll on effect to BIPU and now to the Gold Coast as well. So, I definitely will be pursuing the Alfred further.

So I've made reports about them to the mental health commission and I've also, made feedback complaints to them as well.

So next is the real issue. Two couple of big issues. I haven't had any clear, um, sorry... any clear milestones provided by Gold Coast Hospital other than they're wanting to see my mediumship skills disappear and they're wanting me to no longer believe that crimes have happened around me. Uh, [00:11:00] so I'm fearful that, yeah, that will never happen and no amount of antipsychotic medication has made those go away, go away yet.

And I think I'm at like a total of 10 weeks of medication and being under orders absolutely horrendous to me.

Also, the public hospital system is not able to provide the full scope of support for me. I have been diagnosed with ADHD and PDS and also fibromyalgia for a long time and for over 20 years I've had antidepressants for the fibromyalgia, which had some spinoff effect to help with ADHD and PTSD. ADHD is a fairly new thing in the last five years. I just was starting to feel, you know, not able to cope with as much sort of multitasking as I could before and losing a bit of focus, and a little bit of impact on sleep and a few other things. It's probably not relevant here for diagnosis, but my [00:12:00] point is that the medication that I've been on comfortably and safely for nearly 20 years in the last five years for ADHD has been whipped away overnight and I'm being treated for psychosis, which is absolutely like not even what I think I actually need medication for. And so they're not able to have a holistic approach for me, and I am much better off in a private system where they have the specializations that they need on top of understanding the difference between spirituality and psychosis as well. So the public systems just are inadequate for me.

Most of all, I'm really concerned that the medication and the being locked up, in like a prison environment with other violent people and really unwell people is really hard to do. I'm sounding capable. I'm doing my best to deal with it, but it is really full on, and I have to say, I've been at the point with some of the medications that [00:13:00] I'm fearing I actually think my personality has now changed. I'm also being forced out of my own career for a bunch of, you know, just for the timing and locking me away without access to technology, without access to, you know, my network and stopping my income streams. So I have had my professional career damaged irreparably. And to not be able to be cognitively functioning as a professional is horrendous to me. I'm writing books, writing screenplays. I'm been in marketing. I'm an awarded marketer, and, you know, I'm losing all of that ability and all of my network has gone. I'm also being isolated from my community because I just don't even feel like I resonate with anyone anymore.

And I've got, you know, there's quite a lot of shame around being locked up, imprisoned, for being who you are. And also, you [00:14:00] know, like so much sort of difficulty has happened. I don't resonate with people like I used to, so I feel like it's changed me irreparably and also my ability to be safe.

I ride a motorcycle. There is absolutely no way on this medication, for anti-psychotics, I could ride a motorbike or even drive a car. So that limits my community access and my ability to be myself as well. So not only professionally, my motorbike, I've also been studying and training in martial arts for about 18 months now and my reflexes are so damaged, there's no way that I could perform in that as well.

So I'm please... I'm asking you if you could please really look into my details. I know it's a lot of detail and you know, some people have an allergy to words, but it's important that you really understand every step of this.

I feel there's, you know, a lot of legal, ramifications. So I've [00:15:00] given you two things, my self assessment, but also a response to the tribunal criteria. You know, step by step.

And I'm actually pleading, I feel like my life really depends on it. And having any kind of like normal life that resembles who I am is at stake right now.

And I feel it's been like nearly...as I say this now, I've got two weeks till tribunal and I believe it'll end up being 12 plus weeks with, in hospitalization and on orders with absolutely no clear path ahead. It's traumatic. The medications that I'm being given are actually creating depression. I've never been a person who's actually properly had depression where I didn't want to be on the planet, or I didn't think I had any purpose left.

So it's so challenging and so life changing. [00:16:00] I, I don't believe there's not even a moment of thought that I'm becoming a better person from being in hospital or being medicated. I'm being stripped of who I am and worse than I've ever been in my entire life, and I'm really asking for consideration.

So thanks for listening and I really appreciate you properly reviewing everything that I'm providing. Thank you.
